A Word About Republican Delegates

Every two years, party members gather at caucus meetings to select delegates for the Salt Lake County Republican Party. As the Chair of this party, I am privileged to observe the deep commitment of our 4,000 state and 1,500 county delegates. These individuals, who come from diverse backgrounds including healthcare, law, education, and construction, dedicate numerous hours to ensure our political representatives reflect our party's values.

Delegates are more than just selectors of candidates; they engage in thoughtful discussions, assess policies, and provide feedback that shapes our party's direction and governance. This inclusive system allows voices from all walks of life to be heard, ensuring a well-rounded representation.

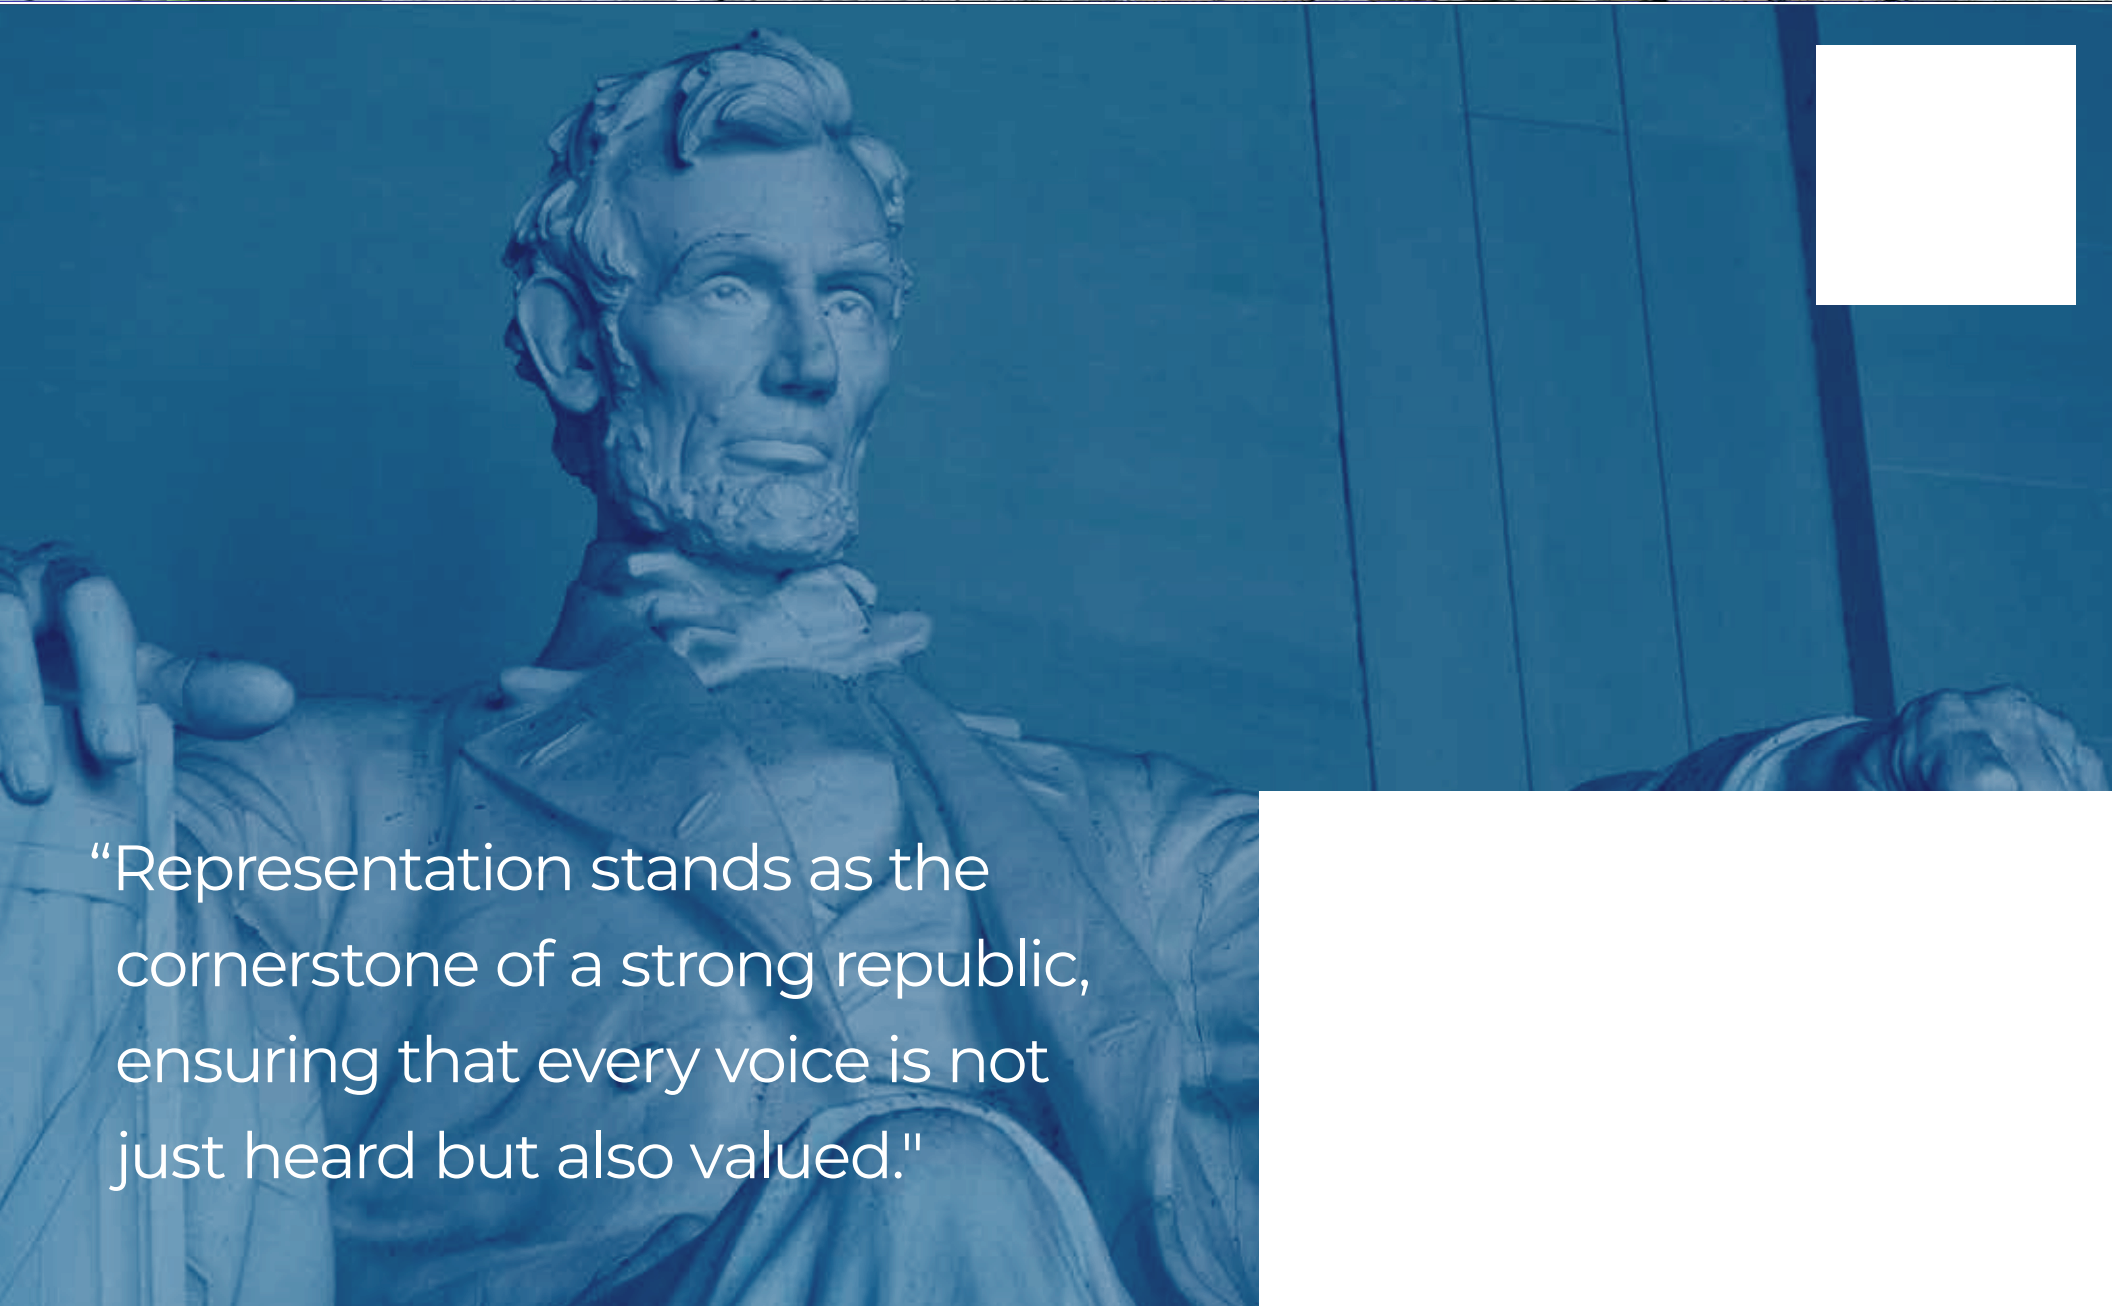

These delegates embody the essence of our neighborhoods—they are engaged, informed, and crucial to our future. They uphold our conservative values of community engagement and responsibility, epitomizing the spirit of Utah, which is marked by dedication, moral integrity, family values, and community commitment.

Recognizing their vital role, we see these delegates as the pulse of the Republican Party and architects of Utah's future. Their service, rooted in the trust of our party, deserves our respect and support as they carry the responsibility of identifying the leadership that this party needs to

I urge every Republican to actively participate in the electoral process by voting for and uniting behind the candidates our delegates have thoughtfully vetted as our party nominees. Your vote for these candidates supports our values and will continue to make Salt Lake County and all of Utah the envy of our great country.

Chris Null, Salt Lake County Republican Party Chair

“Representation stands as the cornerstone of a strong republic, ensuring that every voice is not just heard but also valued.”
